Gentlemen:-

The financial stringency in the South owing to the impossibility of selling naval stores or cotton, impels me to ask for an added loan of $600 on my policy now held by you as security for a $900 loan.

You can take up the $900 loan now if you wish, and make a new one for $1.500 running one year.

I am desirous of getting this $600 as soon as you can possibly arrange it and if it can be done quicker one way than another take the shortest way.

Very truly yours
